Applicants to the MA degree program must also submit a $65 application fee (made payable to Christendom College), a 150-word statement of purpose explaining the reasons for wanting to study theology, two letters of recommendation (preferably one from a spiritual director, pastor or another priest who knows the applicant well, and the other from a former professor or supervisor at work), and official transcripts of all post-secondary academic work, containing proof of a bachelor's degree. Non-degree-seeking (casual) students need only submit this form; however, an official transcript showing proof of a bachelor's degree must be on file for Christendom to issue a transcript. Christendom College does not discriminate against any applicant or student on the basis of race, sex color, or national origin.
